feeling and to make them so necessitates the use of the finest quality of rubber. While Granby Rubbers and Overshoes are up to date in

HER LIFE FOR BABY.

One of the most touching stories of a mother's undying heroism comes from Schreiber. Conductor Thomas Patch, of the C. P. R., formerly of Toronto, now resides at Schreiber.
The other night his wife was descending the stairs to procure water for one of the children, when she slipped and fell. The lamp which she carried was thrown from her hand and exploded, sending the burning oil over the lady and the stairs. Unmindful of herself, thinking only to save the lives of the children, she sought to extinguish the flames on the stairs. Her own clothes were on fire and she was completely enveloped in flames, but she did not stop the little until her house was saved and with it the children. She gave her life for those she loved.
Mrs. Patch's body was fearfully burned from head to foot. Her little son summed a neighbor, Mrs. Field, who found Mrs.
Patch unconscious and entirely devoid of consciousness, her night clothes having been consumed by the flames. Dr. Pringle was called in, but was unable to do anything for the injured lady, and at seven o'clock the following evening she died.
The cause of the fire of heroism was alone in the house, save for the presence of her little children, her husband being at Rosport.

DESERONTO CHEESE AND BUTTER COMPANY.

The annual business meeting of the shareholders and patrons of the Deseronto Cheese and Butter Company was held in the town hall on Saturday, Feb. 1st. The secretary, Conductor Thomas Patch, read the report of the company for the year's operations which among other matters gave the following figures: Total amount of milk received at the factory, 1,771,075 lbs.; cheese manufactured, 106,110 lbs.; butter manufactured, 2,555 lbs.; paid to patrons for milk $10,567.11; average price per 100 lbs. of milk 60 1/3; average pounds of milk to make one pound of cheese 16 1/8; average cost of hauling milk per 100 lbs. 7 1/2; average gross price of cheese 8c; amount paid per standard $18.10. Mr. Rathburn undertook that the Creamery would during the season of 1896 pay at least two cent per hundred lbs more than any other similarly conducted pooling factory in the district legitimately pays from current home field cheese sales. The creamery along milk routes, on certain understood conditions, would send their milk to the creamery. The proposition was very favorably received and was adopted by acted upon. The following were elected directors for the current year: J. G.
Allison, Henry Arncliffe, R. McCallister,
Conductor Thomas Patch, J. P. Pickett,
Kimberly, John R. Smith, Allen Oliver, McCallister, E. W. Rathburn and John McCallister. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: E. W. Rathburn, president; Allen Oliver, vice-president; R. Rathburn, secretary-treasurer.

TEA MEETING AT LONSDALE.

The annual tea meeting of the Presbyterian congregation of Lonsdale was held on the evening of Thursday, Jan. 30th, and was a most successful one. The weather was gregarious. The weather was superb, the clear light of the moon casting everything to be seen along the roads if it were day, the sleighing was of the best, in fact everything united to make the event a success.
Union hall, the place of meeting, was packed in every nook and corner by happy and respectable assembly as was ever convened within its walls, representatives of all denominations extending their patronage.
Tea was served at 6:30 and the ceremonial presentation of delicacies which bordered on prodigality. The ladies of the congregation came in for a great number of compliments for the manner in which they sustained their reputation as caterers on the occasion. At last all were served and ready to proceed with the less serious part of the proceedings of the evening. Accordingly
Rev. D. O. McArthur installed S. Russell, of Deseronto, as chairman of the meeting, and the programme was at once presented with a strong array of talent had been provided and there was nothing wearisome in the programme. The programme was Melrose congregation gave a number of selections which gained well merited applause. Misses Lark and Annie Leslie contributed in a manner most creditable to such young vocalists. Their effort was warmly applauded. Rev. D. O.
McArthur also gave a local solo in capital style. Addresses were given by the following gentlemen: Rev. H. C. Garbutt, the pastor of the Baptist congregation at Lonsdale; Rev. W. S. McFawish, of Deseronto; Rev. J. A. Black, of Roslin; Rev. W.
A. Peck, of Napane; A. J. McLaren, M.
P. E. of Belleville. The programme was very interesting and the various addresses were interspersed with hymns and well received by the audience. There were visitors from the Naperville and Roslin congregations. Although only a light admission fee was charged the event realized $50, thus contributing to the support of the church.
Rev. McArthur and the Lonsdale congregation must be congratulated on their success.

has a son who has had a trouble in his nose for the past five years. It lately became so mother always suspected there was some foreign matter in it, but was assured by all the medical men consulted that such was not the case. The boy was brought in to Dr. Country for examination. His location something embedded in the tissue, and took out what proved to be a iron iron nail. The nail was a boy, and as parents as well can only be imagined.

NO PRAISE IS TOO EXTRAVAGANT.

And yet the wine itself is better than anything that could be said about it. Wilson's Invalids' Fort wine, is the celebrated brand that has rapidly risen in public favor.
The reason is that it meets the needs for a bracing tonic which shall be without the disagreeable taste of medicine. Wilson's Invalids' Fort is a fine old wine, of unobscured age, which has the effect of a bracing and stimulating tonic. It dispels lassitude, puts a new heart of hope into the invalid, and chills it is invaluable in that it gives new blood to an impoverished system. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles, half case $4.00 or 75c per bottle.

MEXICAN LETTER.

A CANADIAN'S VIEWS ON MEXICO AND ITS PEOPLE.

Scenes in the Sierra Madre—A Visit to the Magic Cave of Garcia—It is One of the Greatest and Most Wonderful Wonders of the World—Persons, etc., etc.

I presume all your readers have read more or less about the Mammoth Cave, of Kentucky, and its enchanting chambers, but not one of them has ever heard or read a word about the Magic Cave of Garcia, which is situated in one of the adjacent mountains, northwest of the city of Monterrey, Nave Leon, Mexico. As I don't believe of anything at this time that would be appreciated by the patrons of your paper, than a description of it, I will try and do so in this letter.

A few weeks ago a number of young ladies and gentlemen visited the cave. At 5 p. m. Saturday, they met at the Monterrey and Mexican Gulf railway depot with lunch baskets well filled, and a band of music to fill on pleasure bent; and at 5.30 the train pulled out. In one hour they were landed at Garcia, twenty-four miles away. On the arrival of the train they were MET BY THE MAYOR and a number of prominent citizens and were taken to the residence of Senor Francisco Elizondo, where a sumptuous repast was served. After the tables were removed a dance was inaugurated, and kept up until two in the morning. After the dancing the party went off with chocolate, sweat bread, cake, fruit and other light refreshments. When they got through they found burros (jack asses) ready to carry them to the Magic Cave, which was about three miles off.

At 3 a. m. the guides, servants, and musicians led the way, and when they reached the cave, they erected a portable table, and covered it with the whitest of linen until their pockets, so that the time and the young people arrived they had a sumptuous lunch ready for them. They seated themselves on pillars of stalagmites, rocks, logs, and camp-stools. After lunch they picked ferns and palm leaves, and took their photographs taken by Senor D. Lagrange, who was one of the party, while the band discoursed sweet music. As the morning was bright and clear, the scenery from the mouth of the cave was enchanting.

ELEPHANT-TIGER.

BLOODY SPORT ENJOYED BY THE RAJAS OF INDIA.

Sneaking Combat Witnessed By a Traveler—The Big Beast Vanished and His Blood-Soaked Tracks Remained in the Forest—Leaving Dead and Rats in Its Wake.

Mr. J. Harley Shaw, who has recently returned from an extended trip to the Orient, tells of a custom among Mohammedan natives of a certain district in Fyzabad, India, which, although repulsive to humane sentiment, is yet indicative of that old Romanesque spirit which gave origin to the gladiatorial reign of the Caesars and exhibited the genius of cruelty in fascinating guise. In the district referred to the leading citizens are devoted to many ferocious sports, and among these, tigers and other savage beasts for the sake of seeing them fight each other in prison, and an arena constructed for this purpose, and he who inaugurates and carries to success the bloodiest and most cruel of these exhibitions becomes at once the popular man, par excellence in his community.

At a large Fyzabad, village, in front of an open building was erected a banquet room and called in the native language

"SUNGI BARADERI." A space of 80 feet square was inclosed by a strong bamboo railing to secure the spectators outside from danger, as when frequent accidents happen, and attempts to break by his antagonists, attempts to break by his antagonists, attempts to break by his antagonists.

Mr. Shaw traveled more than 100 miles to witness in this arena a battle between a tiger and an elephant, and he thinks himself well repaid for the time and expense he had incurred in witnessing another affair of the kind unless for some extraordinary consideration, because it is debasing to human sensibilities and outrageously cruel to its devoted victims.

He had read a great deal about barbaric splendor, said he, "but never before appreciated the significance of the phrase. There were men there with ornaments of gold and rare gems upon their persons such as Queens wear and adorned with the most precious stones, and a half mask of white fabric across the upper part of the face, and below a dark skin mask, and jeweled anklets and bejeweled sandals terminated quite a picturesque attire.

The suggestion made by THE TRIBUNE some weeks ago in reference to an inquiry into the administration of justice accounts of this county was acted upon at the late meeting of the council and a committee was appointed to make a preliminary inquiry into some of the particulars of this department. Many of the side walks and nearly all of the street crossings walk in a dangerous condition this week, being covered with masses of ice. Life and limb were thus endangered. It seems that pending the appointment of a street committee by the new council the machinery for remedying this state of affairs could not be put in motion. By the way it is not true that the antiquated system of postponing the appointment of committees until the end of February should be put under the table. There is nothing to prevent the formation of committees on the first day of meeting in the year.

Early last Autumn THE TRIBUNE pointed out the necessity existing for another passenger steamer to be placed on the route between Charlotte and the Thousand Islands via the Bay of Quinte. This route is the most charming trip on Lake Ontario waters and it well advertised would draw a vast deal of passenger traffic from Rochester, Buffalo and other points east and west during the excursion season. The North King only makes one trip a week and her hours are not always convenient. We observe that a new steamer is being constructed at Charlotte, N. Y., by the Genesee River & Lake Ontario Steamboat Co. It will be christened the Ontario, will be fitted with compound engines and burn hard coal. The company is also said to be negotiating for the purchase of a large lake steamer to run between Charlotte and the Thousand Islands. Steps should be taken to get this steamer make her trips by the Bay of Quinte route.

Independent Foresters.

A special meeting of Court Deseronto, No. 93, I. O. F., will be held next Wednesday evening, 12th inst., at 7:30 o'clock. The members are particularly requested to be present at this meeting.

Sash and Door Factory.

Everything is buzzing at the sash and door factory of the Rathbun Company. Among other orders received during the past week was one for two carloads of material, including all the doors and sash wood trimmings, for five large houses which are being erected in Montreal.

Reduced Fares.

In connection with the meeting of the Farmer's Institute to be held at Deseronto on the 18th inst., the Bay of Quinte Railway will issue tickets from Tweed and intermediate stations to Deseronto and return for one fare, good on the 18th for all trainings, and good for return on the 18th and 19th.

Cement Works.

Mr. Mitchell was out to Napanee Mills on Tuesday. By means of certain changes and improvements recently effected at the cement works of the Rathbun Company the output of the kilns has been largely increased. This will greatly aid the Company in meeting the very heavy orders for their material which have been coming in steadily for months back.

Quiet Wedding.

J. B. Gaylord and Miss Hester Doyle, two very popular young people of the town, were united in holy wedlock on the evening of Thursday Jan. 30th. The event which took place at the parsonage, Mill street, was, owing to recent family afflictions, of a private character. Rev. J. H. Coleman, M.A., of St. Mark's church, performed the ceremony. The happy couple have settled down in their home on Thomas street. Very many friends unite in wishing them a very happy wedded life.

Indian Council.

A meeting of the council of Tyendinaga Reserve was held in the Council House on Monday. Among other matters which came up was the decision of the Indian department in reference to the estate of the late Peter Green. By this decision John and Magdalene were named the legal heirs and the council gave John the west and Magdalene the east part of the land. Consideration of the Baptist estate was deferred until the next meeting. The council by resolution requested Chief S. Lott to reconsider his resignation of his seat in the council and asked him to remain as his services as a member of the council were most valuable to the band.

About Maple Sugar.

In reference to the crystals of that maple syrup referred to in last week's TRIBUNE, we are informed by farmers and others well acquainted with the manufacture of maple syrup that the crystals mentioned are no indication whatever of the adulteration of the syrup. When the syrup crystallizes as it often does, even when most pure, the crystals are always white and have none of the flavor so common to maple syrup. A large bottle full of pure maple syrup has been placed on our desk and the crystals can be seen and tested in proof of this assertion. It can also be easily exemplified by any person visiting a camp where the syrup is being boiled down. Some other tests would be made to prove the presence of ordinary sugar.

Serious Accident.

Wm. Martin, of St. George's street, was the victim of a serious accident on Wednesday. With a party of ladies he was started off after dinner on a sleigh ride to Napanee. Mr. Martin's large dog persisted in following her and went all the way to Napanee. She thought it well to have the animal shut up and brought him to John Adams' hotel for that purpose. While there he was proceeding along a hall when he was inadvertently fell down stairs. She was very seriously injured, her face being badly cut, her right arm broken at the wrist and her body bruised. Dr. Leonard was summoned and reduced the fracture and attended to her other injuries. The hotel staff and others extended all possible kindness.

John Callaghan, being doctored by Napanee, is under Dr. Newton's care and, though suffering much pain, is progressing favorably.

Missionary Meeting.

The annual missionary meeting will be held in St. Mark's church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Canon Carey, of Kingston, will deliver an address. There will be a collection in aid of the mission funds of the diocese. All are invited.

Extension of Time.

Messrs Northrup and Wilson, M.P.s, have been informed by the Fisheries Department that the time for hoop net fishing in the Bay of Quinte has been extended until the first of May this year, a concession of two weeks. This concession has been granted on account of the late commencement of the fishing season and the fact that many fishermen suffered serious loss.

Board of Health.

The first meeting of the Board of Health was held in the town hall Monday evening. The gentlemen who will address the meeting of the East Hastings Farmer's Institute to be held at Deseronto on Tuesday, 18th inst., are said to be very entertaining and practical speakers. The topics they will discuss are of general interest to farmers and business men. There should be a large attendance of farmers and their wives and daughters at this meeting. The three counties should be well represented.

Cedar Mill.

A visit to the Cedar Mill shows that the foundation for the new engine has been completed. The masonry and other work is of a most substantial character. The machinery are now busy erecting the new engine. It is thought that in two or three weeks the mill will be ready to commence sawing. About thirteen carloads of material are now coming in daily for this mill. Cedar is coming in from the Central Ontario Railway and cedar and logs from different points along the Bay of Quinte Railway.

Concert at Lonsdale.

Lonsdale Council, No. 274, Canadian Order of Chivalry, will hold their first annual concert in Union Hall, Lonsdale, on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 18th. An energetic committee have the affair in hand and have succeeded in arranging a very attractive programme thus ensuring a pleasant evening's amusement. The first part will be taken up with minarels, followed by light refreshments. Prof. Denmark and a strong array of musical talent from Deseronto and other places will assist. The popular Deseronto mandolin and guitar club will be present. Doors open at 7; concert commences at 8 sharp. Tickets 25c and 15c.

Short Talks.

Very much interest is taken in the coming visit of Dr. Anna Dickson who will deliver a series of very practical and instructive addresses on the treatment of sick and similar topics. These talks will be given in Union Hall, Deseronto, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week. The meetings on Monday and Tuesday will be held at 4 p.m. and will be open to women only, that of Wednesday will be held at 3 p.m. and will be open to the public generally. There will be no admission fee. These addresses are delivered under the auspices of the different congregations and we have no doubt that the attendance will be very large at all the meetings. The hints given for the proper care of the sick are said by those who have heard the lecturer elsewhere to be invaluable.

An Evil Under the Sun.

Very many parents in town complain of the overwork inflicted upon their children after school hours by teachers of the public school. The youngsters have to be up early and late making preparations for next day's work, and their physical and mental energies are often completely exhausted. This is the sore evil in our educational system. The sore evil is to be placed altogether upon the teachers. It starts primarily with parents who are generally too anxious to rush their children from one class to another in the schools. The education department of the province instead of endeavoring to check this anxiety yields to it and hence a system of cram and unhealthy rush in all our schools, of high, middle and colleges. Nevertheless teachers must bear their share of blame as if they would unite in a general and determined protest against this system a change would in due time be effected. In this age when an eight and nine hour day is being agitated for as sufficient for a day's work for the ordinary man, it is the height of cruelty to make little children work ten, twelve or more hours a day. The address in view is defeated even at best.

THE BICYCLE CHASE.

BY MRS. M. L. BRINE.

Milo Warren was making a call on a girl to whom he was fondly attached, although he had never told her so. But this was a case where actions speak louder than words, and he was not at all loath to find out if a young man regards her with favor. Every girl is clairvoyant where affairs of the heart are concerned. They were talking about their birthdays, and the pleasant custom of giving presents at such a time.

Let me see, said Milo thoughtfully, did you say your birthday came in September, Miss Nellie?

I did not say, remarked Miss Nellie, demurely.

Then it was December wasn't it? Some lucky fellow will be giving you a diamond perhaps.

On a sudden spoon, laughed Nellie; you know they made love spoons for birthday gifts, but all the girls changed their birthdays to December, and the young men could not stand the expense, and they went to a petition to the manufacturers, asking them to discontinue the custom, so no more spoons are in the market.

—I—really wish you would tell me when your natal day arrives. I might at least send you a bunch of roses. In remembrance of this—the happy day.

Have you spent together, is it this month, Miss Nellie?

You remind me of the parlor game, is it this? If I say yes, will you think I am lying or awfully—no, I don't mean that—but if that girl has a birthday and you want to make her a present, and she won't tell you when it is—the birthday, you know, oh, hang it all, I'm overawfully mixed up. Can't you help a fellow?

Lynne Nelson laid down her knife and fork and, looking Milo in the face, asked seriously:

Any inanity in your family, Milo?

None this side of my own case, was the depressed answer.

Reducing your heroines to a plain statement, then, you want to give a girl of your acquaintance a birthday present?

Exactly.

Is she an Old Woman?

What do you mean? roared Warren, turning round to speak with respect of my friends—belides I—

Oh, no harm done; don't get rid so easily of me—is the birthday, you know, to the past age or the present? Take it then that she's a New Woman?

I understand now. Yes, I believe she has been in the hands of those dreadful creatures that advocate the wearing of bloomers. Nellie is the soul of womanly modesty—and?

Nellie? Do know this bright particular star?

Why, of course you do—I quite forgot—she's your own sister!

Well, like that! And you want to make her a birthday present and don't know her age. Sorry, old fellow, but I can't help you out. Nellie would take my head off.

That ended the lunch, but an unforeseen thing happened. Just as Milo Warren left the room, he saw a girl he knew, an unbrin he knew. It was the million known as Nellie's youngest brother, age 7, capably for mischief, seven times over, presently only by the name of the million.

Milo, with malice prepense, engaged the dear child in a surfeit of sweets, and then asked, as if the idea was not the least consequence and had just occurred to him:

When does Sister Nellie have a birthday?

The dear child looked at him for a moment, drew his mouth round under his ear, elevated both eye-brows and said in a confidential, infantile voice:

What I give you this now?

Advantageous terms being made, the boy puckered his mouth for a whistle, thought for a moment, and then, following Saturday as his sister's birthday.

An' if you want to make yourself old so, just send her a real surfer of a bike.

What a magnificent idea! How kind!

How kin' she'll reckon she kin learn, mister. You just send that bike—then she ain't nothin'! Nell wants more nor that.

With this advice, and a good word of secrecy, the small terror bowed himself off.

It gave Milo Warren something to do to purchase that bicycle and have it delivered to Miss Nellie on her birthday in an anonymous manner. He expected it back every hour for about a week, but it did not come, and he felt safe. The small brother had not betrayed him after all.

But after a little he began to wish he had, for Miss Nellie had evidently mounted that bicycle and ridden out of his life. He called, but she was out on her bicycle, no matter what the hour was, noon or night, and he got himself run over on the street, and knocked down daily by dashing out from the sidewalks corners to see who the rider was, and get the hurt to his pains. He could not stand it, no longer he came to a sudden resolve he would buy a bicycle for himself, and perhaps be able to find Nellie.

And now began an exciting chase for life and liberty, for at one moment the amateur bicyclist was under the feet of a tramping horse, the next he was running over a swartly pedestrian, and he usually ended his expeditions by picking up a frisky steed and carrying it to the shop for repairs.

And all this time he never caught a glimpse of Nellie, but he was inclined to think he divined the cause. Judging from his own experience in learning to ride a bicycle.

Nellie might be exercising her own frictions acquisitions on some remote road-way outside the town limits or, dreadful thought, might even be riding herself for thought. He called on the bookkeeper, but found him busy and noncommittal. So he waited and waited, and his soul with patience, and learn to ride a bike without the zig-zag motion that had endangered the lives of a populace, and nearly caused his arrest by the police.

Then he made the discovery that if he gave his wheel its head, it would be much better than when he guided it carefully, to the end that it traversed both sides of the street, and after acting like a thing possessed it started to take and he found himself skimming along like a bird on the wing, with an exultant sense of freedom and delight, and he longed to see Nellie and tell her what he had been trying to say for months—that he loved her!

And at that moment there whizzed past him a vision in bloomers, one of those dreadful New Women of whom he had heard and told her what he had been trying to say for months—that he loved her!

—I—really wish you would tell me when your natal day arrives. I might at least send you a bunch of roses. In remembrance of this—the happy day.

Have you spent together, is it this month, Miss Nellie?

You remind me of the parlor game, is it this? If I say yes, will you think I am lying or awfully—no, I don't mean that—but if that girl has a birthday and you want to make her a present, and she won't tell you when it is—the birthday, you know, oh, hang it all, I'm overawfully mixed up. Can't you help a fellow?

Lynne Nelson laid down her knife and fork and, looking Milo in the face, asked seriously:

Any inanity in your family, Milo?

None this side of my own case, was the depressed answer.

Reducing your heroines to a plain statement, then, you want to give a girl of your acquaintance a birthday present?

Exactly.

Is she an Old Woman?

What do you mean? roared Warren, turning round to speak with respect of my friends—belides I—

Oh, no harm done; don't get rid so easily of me—is the birthday, you know, to the past age or the present? Take it then that she's a New Woman?

I understand now. Yes, I believe she has been in the hands of those dreadful creatures that advocate the wearing of bloomers. Nellie is the soul of womanly modesty—and?

Nellie? Do know this bright particular star?

Why, of course you do—I quite forgot—she's your own sister!

Well, like that! And you want to make her a birthday present and don't know her age. Sorry, old fellow, but I can't help you out. Nellie would take my head off.

That ended the lunch, but an unforeseen thing happened. Just as Milo Warren left the room, he saw a girl he knew, an unbrin he knew. It was the million known as Nellie's youngest brother, age 7, capably for mischief, seven times over, presently only by the name of the million.

Milo, with malice prepense, engaged the dear child in a surfeit of sweets, and then asked, as if the idea was not the least consequence and had just occurred to him:

When does Sister Nellie have a birthday?

The dear child looked at him for a moment, drew his mouth round under his ear, elevated both eye-brows and said in a confidential, infantile voice:

What I give you this now?

Advantageous terms being made, the boy puckered his mouth for a whistle, thought for a moment, and then, following Saturday as his sister's birthday.

An' if you want to make yourself old so, just send her a real surfer of a bike.

What a magnificent idea! How kind!

How kin' she'll reckon she kin learn, mister. You just send that bike—then she ain't nothin'! Nell wants more nor that.

With this advice, and a good word of secrecy, the small terror bowed himself off.

It gave Milo Warren something to do to purchase that bicycle and have it delivered to Miss Nellie on her birthday in an anonymous manner. He expected it back every hour for about a week, but it did not come, and he felt safe. The small brother had not betrayed him after all.

But after a little he began to wish he had, for Miss Nellie had evidently mounted that bicycle and ridden out of his life. He called, but she was out on her bicycle, no matter what the hour was, noon or night, and he got himself run over on the street, and knocked down daily by dashing out from the sidewalks corners to see who the rider was, and get the hurt to his pains. He could not stand it, no longer he came to a sudden resolve he would buy a bicycle for himself, and perhaps be able to find Nellie.

And now began an exciting chase for life and liberty, for at one moment the amateur bicyclist was under the feet of a tramping horse, the next he was running over a swartly pedestrian, and he usually ended his expeditions by picking up a frisky steed and carrying it to the shop for repairs.

And all this time he never caught a glimpse of Nellie, but he was inclined to think he divined the cause. Judging from his own experience in learning to ride a bicycle.

THE SQUARE-BUILT MAN.

Two Occasions on Which He Said "Well, Good-bye" to the World.

"War correspondents!" exclaimed Lord Wolsey. "Some of them are desperately brave. Some of them are anything but heroes. The majority, I think, do their duty well, even when it leads them into the thick of the war, talking of high places and war correspondents."

An incident that may interest the reader at the beginning of the Ashante campaign, just after our last issue, a square-built little man came up to me and said, speaking slowly, and with an air of gravity, "General, allow me to introduce myself. I am the correspondent of the New York Herald."

"Too busy to attend to him, I cut him short with 'What can I do for you?' It was replied, immediately, "I have the same exasperating slowness." "Well, General, I want to be as near you as I can if it was my fighting to be seen."

"Capt. Reed and So have charge of all the arrangements concerning correspondents. I rejoined, curtly; you had better see with this I turned on my heel and went about my business."

"I saw no more of my correspondent until the morning when he was shot. I saw no more of him for many a day. I did not even know whether he was accompanying the column or not."

"I was only in one danger once during the whole expedition. It was shortly before we entered Coomassie. I was pressed forward with the advance troops, hoping to break the last effort at resistance and have done with the affair, when the enemy, utilizing the heavy cover, came upon us and fairly surrounded us. For a few minutes the position was critical, and every man had to fight for his life. The line was poured in from all sides, dodging from tree to tree, and continually closing closer, hoping to get to the heart of the host of the enemy."

Attention was caught by a man in civilian's clothes, who was some fifteen or twenty yards in front of me, and who was completely surrounded by the enemy's savages. He seemed to pay no heed to the danger, but, kneeling on one knee, he was praying, and again and again I seemed to see that every time he fired a black man fell. I was fascinated by his danger and coyness. As our main body came up, he turned round and, with a look of defiance, I went forward to see that no harm came to my civilian friend, who rose just as I reached him. To my astonishment it was the correspondent of the New York Herald, and he began again in the same slow, calm way:

"I am, General."

"Again interrupted him: 'You were lucky to escape. Didn't you see that you were surrounded?'

"Yes," he began again. "I guess I was too much occupied by the negroes in front to pay much attention to those behind."

"That was evidently the simple truth. Whatever men may say in the future about Henry M. Stanley, no one that has seen him in danger will deny that his courage and coolness were of the highest order. He was the correspondent of the New York Herald, and he began again in the same slow, calm way:

"I am, General."

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Brown and family left for the east on Tuesday morning. A large number of friends were at the railway station to bid them good-bye. Mrs. Brown and children will remain at Ottawa for a few weeks. Mr. Brown reports at Montreal this week and enters upon his new duties forthwith.

Marsden Kemp, specialist in piano treatment and tuning, passed through to Picton this week. He has one of the most practical trainings of 19 years in modern treatment that a man can offer.

The county council of Durham and Northumberland appear inclined for a reduction of the number of its members. It would be well for our Hastings council to do likewise. It appears unreasonable to take a long way from their homes to transact the trifling amount of business that is done by each session of the council. There are four commissioners chosen by the reeves of the municipalities could do all the business of this council.

The Imperial parliament opened on Tuesday and the Queen's Speech has been the subject of a prolonged debate. The action of the government on the Armenian and Venezuelan questions has been challenged. From statements made by the leaders of the Government party it is probable the settlement of the difficulty between Guiana and Venezuela will be effected by arbitration.

The assembly in the opera house last Friday evening was a very brilliant event. There was a large attendance, including several from other places. The music was furnished by Prof. Denmark's orchestra. Everything passed off in the most pleasant manner possible. As regards the belle of the evening there is much difference of opinion but a young lady of Main street appears to have a majority of votes in her favor.

Dr. Anna Dickson gave a series of lectures on health topics in Union Hall this week. The afternoon meetings on Monday and Tuesday drew a very large audience of ladies, who were very much pleased with the fair lecturer's efforts. The public meeting on Wednesday was well attended. W. W. Foster, writing from Calgary, Alberta, to a friend in town, states that he has gained fourteen pounds in weight during his stay in that part of Canada. Ranching is the great business in Alberta, other lines of farming not being so profitable. The gold mining fever has reached Calgary, and many are preparing to go to the British Columbia mines. He has met Chas. Valler, formerly of Deseronto, who is now the owner of a large ranch farm in the Calgary district.

While the members of the Mohawk Brass Band were returning home from Northport on Wednesday evening their sleigh upset near Telegraph Island, and the team ran away. The whole organization were landed in the deep snow, and then had to foot it to Deseronto. The only drawback is the exorbitant price charged by railways for carrying grain to the seaboard. Mr. Crouter visited the Red Barn and was pleased with all that he saw there. He is enjoying his visit to Deseronto.

On Monday Mr. Northrup, M. P., presented a petition to the house from the County Council of Hastings, pointing out that many of the pauper children brought into Canada are physically and mentally incapable of becoming useful and intelligent citizens of the Dominion, and that a considerable portion eventually become absorbed into vicious and criminal classes of the community. The petition therefore urges that the Government be in aid of instruction of pauper children be discontinued, and that legislation be enacted to compel societies or organizations responsible for bringing these children into Canada to take control of those who may be proved to be physically incapable of work or worthless characters. The Weather.
The weather during the past week has been generally stormy and blustery. There were falls of snow on Friday, Sunday, Monday and Thursday. The church he so faithfully served sees that he and family are well cared for.

Mohawk Glee Club.
The Mohawk Glee Club very kindly furnished a delightful programme at the entertainment given by the Gresham I. O. F. court last week. The proceeds amounted to $34.50. It also delighted the audience at a tea meeting given by the Church of England congregation at Glenora on Thursday, 6th inst. The proceeds amounted to $30. It also gave an entertainment in Northport on Wednesday evening in aid of the Mohawk Brass Band. Miss Oronhyatsky played the accompaniments.

Deseronto Abroad.

McCloskey, Mrs. John Huff, the Misses Barton, Master Roy McCloskey, Rod Huff, etc., etc. The principal feature of the evening was music rendered by the Brownville chorus club and Prof. R. Huff, of Deseronto, Canada, who rendered some fine violin solos. Mr. Huff and Miss Emma Barton also gave a violin and piano duo, and subsequently a mandolin and bajo selection.

Farmers' Day.
Next Tuesday, 15th inst., is the date of the meeting at Deseronto of the East Hastings Farmers' Institute. With favorable weather there is every reason to believe there will be an unusually large number of the farmers of the surrounding district present to hear the addresses by the delegation.

The meeting will be held in the hall at 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. The questions to be discussed are of great practical interest to all interested in agriculture. It is hoped that the farmers of the immediate district will be out in force at these meetings.

WINTER CARNIVAL.

A Great Palace of Ice and Snow—Beautiful Architectural and Other Designs.

With many years of experience and always famous for their success in this line the citizens of Quebec have erected another palace of snow and ice. The glittering wonder is completed, and those who see it readily pronounce it the most unique and beautiful thing of its kind which has ever been built in Canada.

The main building is surrounded by smaller ice forts and snow houses innumerable, making the whole scene a magnificent one.

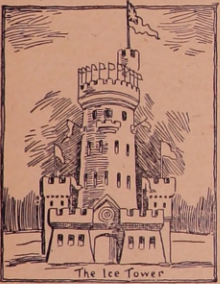

The principal structure is a novel spiral tower rising from the top of the ice fort, and is built upon the fortification wall near the St. Louis Gate. The walls are 40 feet high, and the surroundings are such as to make it an ideal location both as a place for sight-seeing and for the operations of the armies of offense and defense which will storm this stronghold in one of the most effective spectacles to be witnessed at the carnival. The tower cost $1,438, and $3,000 worth of fireworks will be set off from it.

Singular Ingenuity is displayed by the Quebec people in preparing the program for this carnival. Viceroys, in the person of the Governor-General of Canada and the Countess of Aberdeen, will smile upon them, and the Lieutenant-Governor of the province undertakes to participate in the frolic and sport of this one week of rollicking jollification. Sir Henri Gustave Joly de Lotbiniere, K. C. M. G., is the honorary president of the executive committee, and other persons of little less distinction in the social and political circles with the carnival promoters. The winter carnival is to Quebec what the Horse Show is to New York and Toronto, and society ensembles of many other wealthy mingle with the crowd, and be natural. Two years ago, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Buffalo and other northern cities were well represented at Quebec's first carnival. Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor spent the week there skating and dining and delight riding and many other wealthy people from the United States were registered at the Quebec hotels. It was conceded that Quebec had eclipsed all previous winter carnival records, but this year it is the ambition of the committee to lower the record several degrees.

Nearly 2,000 blacksmiths in blanket costumes and carrying torches will aid the military in the assault upon the tower and in repelling it and subsequently they will man the towers and the spiral stairs surrounding it, as well as the various outlying structures, watch castles and battlements connecting them, all of which are of ice.

The ice palace is not, however, the only attraction of Quebec at this season. There is much to interest in the quaint old town, half buried in snow, the rosy cheeks, dark-eyed, laughing French-Canadian girls clad in their warm fur or gay blanket suits, the gorgeous, rollicking snowshoes and their merry French songs, and the social festivities.

all of which are unchangeable. The same good-natured eaters will be there to drive visitors around in their low sleighs, luxuriously mounted under piles of the warmest furs. The same mimic war will be enacted on the Plains of Abraham in the attack, and defense of the ice fort; the same programme of the ice fort will be carried out on the ice or over the snow hills, and the same gay scenes will be witnessed at the balls and masquerades, the rinks, sliding slides, toboggan slides, and even on the streets. The carnival drive, or algorithmic parade, and the Tandem Club drive will be as full as the rest of this second carnival, just as in proportions and proportions magnificent.

A CHILD CURED OF ROZEMA, BY CHAS. E. OLIMBERT.

"My four-year-old daughter, Ella, was afflicted with rozema for 24 months, the most severe case of eruption behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy, but without success. I bought a bottle of Chase's Ointment, and since using the ointment has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured."

But beauty of face thin, lips curled, this unless the additional grace of beauty of teeth adds its charm. Fine teeth, sweet breath, rippling laughter—these graces that always go together—leave no room for decay, decay like whiteness, remove discoloration and tartar from the teeth, and renders the breath fragrant as flowers.

FREAK BICYCLES.

A HOOP-LIKE AFFAIR WHICH IS A NOVELTY.

But Can Anybody Ride It?—The Hantamette is Built Low and is Designed to Help Women Learn to Mount.

In England a man has evolved the queer-looking thing on this page, which the inventor safely claims to be the latest thing in cycles. This cycle has not as yet been given a name, and it will not be placed in the public service for a month yet.

The accompanying illustration is from Black and White, a reputable publication that would not be guilty of playing a practical joke on the cycling world. The accompanying description is quite brief and in these words:

"A design which is its peculiar charm. Lightness with simplicity of construction appear to be its strongest points; the rider, being suspended below the machine instead of gravity, maintains a level seat whatever the speed or grade. Power is obtained by the simple action of a spring attached to the frame, and great speed is promised. You will wish the new cycle all the success it may be found to deserve."

The illustration is, however, far from satisfactory, as the details of the pedal connection are not apparent, and the bare statement that "power is obtained by

THE HORSE BICYCLE.

The Hippocycle Enables Equines to Push the Rubber Tires.

The prediction made last summer by Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, that a machine would be invented that would be the horse what the bicycle is to the man, has attracted more than passing attention, and the problem of a vehicle in which the horse shall be the motive power is not so far from solution as many others that have vexed the scientific world for years.

A correspondent of a leading English paper, Cyclopedia, believes that the "hippocycle," of which he submits a working drawing, a great advance in this direction has been made, and that the machine equipped with four 30-inch rubber-tired wheels, the two rear wheels being drivers, the forward wheels steers. The machine is so constructed that the horse will propel himself and the vehicle, and there will be two riders, who will do the steering and governing.

The method of transmitting the power from the horse is by a revolving endless platform built upon two chains supported by rollers, the construction being identical with that of the low-power treadmills and with that in small flour mills and wood-sawing yards. Upon this platform the horse can walk or run as desired, being harnessed with collar and traces in the usual way, the traces being hooked to the end of the machine.

In moving the horse pulls at the traces, and as the platform recedes under his feet the machine advances. Motion from the platform is communicated to a toothed and ratcheted drum on the driving axle over which the platform runs, and the other end of the platform over a free drum.

When the first machine was built it was found by this arrangement that it was propelled backward. To obviate this difficulty the platform was reversed, and the horse placed so that his head pointed in the opposite direction to that which he was to propel.

It will be observed that the upright forward form of unusual length. This is made necessary by the small diameter of the wheels, bringing the center of the fork well towards the ground.

The arrangement of the frame in the rear is peculiar. Instead of the pair of parallel bars extending from the saddle diagonally to the axle of the rear wheel there is a single straight bar, reaching from the saddle to a heavier bar which extends horizontally from the rear axle half way to the pedals. In this way a material saving is made in weight, and, it would seem, of general strength and rigidity.

The essential feature of the machine is the pedal and gearing action, which is attached to the forward wheel. There is a chainless gear, which may be altered to suit the rider. In the ordinary chain-gear bicycles the rider is usually seated slightly forward of a point above the rear axle. In the hantamette, the rider is seated well forward.

The fact that the propelling force is built into the frame instead of with the rear wheel seems to make no difference in the running of the bicycle. Some ingenious mechanics have declared that there is a loss of leverage in the chainless gear, but this assertion has yet to be proved. Those who have given both kinds thorough trial are unanxious as to the latter.

The hantamette shown in the picture is built with an upper cross bar, with a frame for skirts. It is an excellent machine for riding mounting with. It is very neat after a ride, and the rider has her skirts comfortably and seating herself firmly in the saddle to give a forward thrust with one foot, or both feet. Enough momentum is gained in this way to allow of plenty of time for getting control of the pedals.

There are some women who never have learned to mount the bicycle, although they ride well when they are started. They are deterred by fear of falling or receiving some injury. There is absolutely no reason for such fear when using the hantamette.

Still another new thing in "wheels" comes from the current Scientific American. It is called a railway bicycle. The purpose of the machine is to provide a means of conveyance for one or more persons as well as tools and appliances for repairing electric lines and railway tracks. The bicycle is the invention of Mr. William J. Mallory, of Langtry, Tex., and has been patented.

As will be seen at once, the bicycle is designed to be run on a car-track. The forward wheel and the guide wheel are each provided with flanges for this purpose. It was not necessary to have a flange on the rear wheel, as it keeps the track through the action of the other wheels. A flange on the rear wheel would be a disadvantage, as it would not accomplish any good object.

The front and rear main wheels are placed in a frame, on which is a crank-shaft and a connecting rod to raise the rear wheel. The other track rail is engaged by the flanged guide wheel on a short axle attached to a transverse bar.

The handle bar may be raised, or lowered at pleasure by means of a movable collar. From the lower end of the handle bar a stiff rod extends to the transverse rod. The framework is so arranged that it may be folded up into a comparatively small compass when not in use.

A brake is attached in the rear of the front wheel, and on the frame in front of the bicycle wheel is carried a tool box. A platform in the rear affords room for another passenger or for fixtures or appliances to be carried.

By the movement of the handle bar the rider keeps the guide wheel in a proper forward or backward position on curves, preventing any binding of the wheels and readily balancing the frame when there is considerable difference in the elevation of the rails.

CHAPTER V.

The seventeenth came in due course, and with it Lady Varley's ball. It was already so far advanced as to enable one to declare it a success. There was a superabundance of flowers, excellent music, and a floor covered with their women, which in the country means everything, being a rare occurrence.

Mrs. Dundas arrived late, but she always arrived late to waste her entry on an empty room, as she was generally the best dressed, and quite as generally the loveliest woman wherever she went. Having taken this fact to heart early in life, she molded her plans to suit her knowledge. To-night, being a stranger, she would have been sure of much attention had she been plain and dowdily attired; as it was she created a perfect furore.

And, indeed, she was well worth a lengthened examination. Her gown was white satin, her ornaments diamonds; while, as she sat, all this, as her face caught the eye. She looked superb, sparkling, brilliant. There was a touch of expectancy, too, about her that heightened her animation.

As she sat, a small drop from her into the arms of the attendant in the dressing-room, and as her whole exquisite figure betrayed itself to her in an opposite mirror, she smiled to her complacently, and her blood stirred quicker through her veins, and her eyes grew brighter with the sense of coming and sure triumph.

It was in one of the dainty rooms of the ball-room that she stood, a little later, on looking round, she saw smiling, with parted lips that smiled enchantingly, to the man beside her; but her glance was straying delicately here and there from one form to another. At last it rested.

If she started, it was so slightly that her companion knew nothing of it. The pupils of her eyes enlarged and, though she still spoke to and smiled at him beside her, her glance did not again wander. It was fixed on a corner of the room in which she stood, that man of about thirty, distinguished, if rather dispirited in appearance, was leaning against the wall, conversing with a fair-haired woman sitting on a lounge below him.

She was a very ordinary woman, an every-day person, and, in fact, as Mrs. Dundas decided after the first curvy glance, but he—

She bent her large, full gaze upon his bowed face, and waited. Perhaps there was some magic in the concentration of her regard, because, very soon, while he grew restless, absent, fuddled, as it were, and at last lifted his head and stared impatiently, and his eyes appeared to Mrs. Dundas both weary, dissatisfied, and this belief did her good; it settled her new faith in life with a gasp.

His eyes traveled slowly across his will, up the room and down again, as if he were seeking for some one who stood in all the insolence of her beauty, that could hardly be surpassed, nearer, nearer still, as she came, and in hers was compelling him, magnetic force.

At last he saw her. She was still smiling, with her head thrown back a little backward. She was still smiling, with her head thrown back a little backward. She was still smiling, with her head thrown back a little backward.

About the House.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Old maiting may still be serviceable by putting it under carpets.

A lump of sugar saturated with vinegar and a little salt will clean the air in a pan of cold water, else it soon becomes limp.

Salt makes an extra fine tooth powder, and a little water and rosy and makes the teeth brilliantly white.

A bruise may be prevented from discoloring by immediately applying hot water or a little dry starch, moistened with cold water and placed on the bruise.

For neuralgia, make a small muslin bag and fill it with salt, heat it and place against the aching spot; it will soothe the pain, and the salt will gradually disappear.

Put a teaspoonful of Ammonia into a quart of water, and wash your brushes and combs in this, and the dirt and grease will disappear. Rinse well, and your luck will grow to be permanent.

The air in a room may be greatly purified by setting a pail of water in a room for twenty-four hours. It will absorb all the poisonous gases and the air will be pure and the water utterly bad.

Stained Silver.—Medicine often leaves a stain on silver spoons. To remove this rub them with sulphuric acid, and then wash with hot soapsuds.

Egg-Spoons.—The sulphur in the egg yolk will stain silver and silver-plated spoons. To remove this rub them with salt on a damp cloth.

Varnish on Furniture.—White spots on varnished furniture are caused by holding a hot iron over them, or by rubbing a piece of brown paper five or six times, soak it in water, wet the spots, and lay the paper on it. If the varnish has been taken off by rubbing, it can be restored by rubbing with spirits of salts six parts.

Remove Grease.—One ounce of pulverized borax and a pint of gum camphor, put into one quart of boiling water, and bottle for use.

To Restore Color.—When the color has been washed off a piece of material, to neutralize the acid, saturate with chloroform, and the color will usually be restored. If the material is white, it is subject to all kinds of spots, from all varieties of substances, and these may be removed by different treatment for their removal.

To Take Out Tar.—Rub repeatedly with spirits of turpentine.

Scalloped Oysters.—Mayonnaise Sandwiches.—Take one quart of oysters and drain them. Strain the liquor and mix with a pint of milk to make a pint, salt to taste and set where it will heat. Mix half teaspoonful of pepper and the same quantity of mace with a heaping pint of cracker crumbs. Melt half a cupful of butter and stir into the crumbs. Put the oysters in a glass dish and pour the Crumbs first and last. Pour the liquor over the top and bake one hour.

About the House.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Old maiting may still be serviceable by putting it under carpets.

A lump of sugar saturated with vinegar and a little salt will clean the air in a pan of cold water, else it soon becomes limp.

Salt makes an extra fine tooth powder, and a little water and rosy and makes the teeth brilliantly white.

A bruise may be prevented from discoloring by immediately applying hot water or a little dry starch, moistened with cold water and placed on the bruise.

For neuralgia, make a small muslin bag and fill it with salt, heat it and place against the aching spot; it will soothe the pain, and the salt will gradually disappear.

Put a teaspoonful of Ammonia into a quart of water, and wash your brushes and combs in this, and the dirt and grease will disappear. Rinse well, and your luck will grow to be permanent.

The air in a room may be greatly purified by setting a pail of water in a room for twenty-four hours. It will absorb all the poisonous gases and the air will be pure and the water utterly bad.

Stained Silver.—Medicine often leaves a stain on silver spoons. To remove this rub them with sulphuric acid, and then wash with hot soapsuds.

Egg-Spoons.—The sulphur in the egg yolk will stain silver and silver-plated spoons. To remove this rub them with salt on a damp cloth.

Varnish on Furniture.—White spots on varnished furniture are caused by holding a hot iron over them, or by rubbing a piece of brown paper five or six times, soak it in water, wet the spots, and lay the paper on it.

Remove Grease.—One ounce of pulverized borax and a pint of gum camphor, put into one quart of boiling water, and bottle for use.

To Restore Color.—When the color has been washed off a piece of material, to neutralize the acid, saturate with chloroform, and the color will usually be restored. If the material is white, it is subject to all kinds of spots, from all varieties of substances, and these may be removed by different treatment for their removal.

To Take Out Tar.—Rub repeatedly with spirits of turpentine.

Scalloped Oysters.—Mayonnaise Sandwiches.—Take one quart of oysters and drain them. Strain the liquor and mix with a pint of milk to make a pint, salt to taste and set where it will heat.

DEVoured BY WOLVES.

HORRIBLE FATE OF A PARTY OF TRAVELLERS IN SIBERIA.

They Were Attacked at Night in the Deserts of Siberia, and the Travellers, Starving and Exhausted, Succeeded in Slaying Fifty of Their Wolves.

There is nothing in fiction surpassing the grim reality of the tragic events which occurred in a despatch from Irkutsk, Siberia, to a Moscow paper a few days ago. A caravan crossing the Siberian desert was destroyed by wolves, whom hunger and the awful cold had driven from the forests out upon the plain along the great caravan route which traverses Siberia from east to west.

The details of the tragedy can only be surmised, for there is no one left alive to tell the tale. It is known that there were a score or so of travellers and traders in the party, travelling among six or seven sledges. There were in the baggage of each sledge several axes, and a few of the party carried rifles, but as it is extremely rare for wolves to attack so large a body of men, who were armed with such a danger even entered their minds.

Travelling in Siberia during the long polar winter is at best fraught with risk, for the stations where horses may be procured are very much apart, and there are no very present dangers of wandering from the route in the fierce storms that come down without warning from the north. A thick crust of snow covers the ground, giving it the appearance of a limitless white sea.

The pack sledges are drawn by men, and during the short winter day, at night the vast expanse of whiteness is lit by a moon of cold and brilliant splendor, and at times the snow grows yellow or blood red with the flames of fires, or the lights of the aurora borealis.

The snow is always intense, and the earth seems like a vast block of ice. THE CARAVAN which was to be so tragically wiped out of existence appears to have travelled westward many days and nights from Irkutsk before it met its fate. It is supposed that the party was attacked at night, when all but the drivers were asleep, and that they were benumbed by the cold, and that the wolves, who were prowling about the sledges, were fastened by a rope about fifty feet long, a small bundle of straw covered with black sheepskin. When the sledges were in motion, dangles about like a young pig.

The story is told of one party, which started out well provided with guns, etc. On reaching a likely spot, they produced their guns and began to twist in their whereupon is squealed lustily and soon drew a horde of famished wolves in the track of the sledges. When these had approached within range, the party opened fire on them and shot several, but the wolves, who were so quick to turn to pieces by their companions and devoured.

One after the other, each sledge was attacked by a monster, and after the first horse went down before the blood of the last was being lapped by the wolves, the men fought for their lives with guns and axes, but the onslaught was so sudden and so fierce that they were soon prepared, and they, too, were soon born down by the irresistible rush of the wolves. The travellers, who were men of hardy and brave, were soon found, but they were all dead, and the wolves had devoured the bodies of the men.

Three days later another party of travellers passing over the same route came to the same place. The route was the same, and the wolves were the same. The travellers, who were men of hardy and brave, were soon found, but they were all dead, and the wolves had devoured the bodies of the men.

Scattered about were broken sledges, the skeletons of men and horses picked up in every crevice. The wolves were seen in every crevice, and the travellers, who were men of hardy and brave, were soon found, but they were all dead, and the wolves had devoured the bodies of the men.

Even the clothing of the travellers was literally torn to shreds, and the bones of the travellers were seen in every crevice. The travellers, who were men of hardy and brave, were soon found, but they were all dead, and the wolves had devoured the bodies of the men.

The Siberian wolf, so travellers say, is a more voracious and dangerous animal than the European relative. In the far north its coat is white, but it gradually changes to gray or brown in more southern latitudes.

These animals usually wander about in packs, and their habits are similar to those of the European species. Hunger makes them aggressive and induces them to attack other animals, but man is their last resort.

In Siberia, where cattle are never looked after, and where the wolves are secure in open pens, wolves can always be seen prowling about the gates of the villages, and have no need to encounter the danger of attacking a human being.

Where there are no such easy means of satisfying their hunger, they are much more cautious and dangerous to travellers. In Northern Siberia, on the road to Yakut, there have been cases reported where have been devoured. "The Yakuts, one of the primitive Asiatic tribes, dwell on the banks of the Lena," a Russian writer states, "surround their dwellings by a fence of the Lena, and the wolves are often caught. The object of these traps is not so much to kill the wolves, but to keep them away from the villages, as the hope of frightening away these animals is the only means of their defence. ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The office of the Bay of Quinte Railway, and Deseronto Navigation Companies was the scene of a pleasant affair on the evening of Friday, 7th inst. About six o'clock, there was a gathering of employees of the two companies who evidently had important business on hand. Messrs. Chapman and Brown were deeply absorbed in some intricate freight problem. This solved, G. A. Grant, of the Audit department, stepped forward and proceeded to read the following address:—

Deseronto, Ont., Feb. 7th, 96.

To G. A. Brown, Esq.,

General Freight and Passenger Agent,

Bay of Quinte and Deseronto Nav. Co.

Sir,—We, the undersigned Official and Employees of the Bay of Quinte Railway and Deseronto Navigation Companies, have learned with deep regret that you are about to shortly sever your connection with the above Companies after a period of some thirteen years a service during which period the business of the Companies has grown from a comparatively small beginning to its present extensive proportions, owing largely to your ever faithful cooperation, judgment and business ability.

While regretting your departure we are happy to know that you are about to enter upon a larger and we believe more lucrative sphere of usefulness with the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, but before you leave us we wish to express our appreciation with the accompanying right of smoking set, in the hope that during future years, of we trust, prosperity, the sight and use of these little tokens of our esteem will serve to remind you sometimes of those who have in the past served with and under you in this vicinity.

Signed on behalf of the Bay of Quinte R'y employees,—

Signed on behalf of the Deseronto Navigation Company employees,—

CAPT. S. ANDERSON.

Mr. Brown was visibly affected by this expression of friendship and esteem on the part of the employees. He replied thanking them for the kind words contained in the address. He had heard that they intended to make a presentation but he had thought of nothing more than a little token and never anticipated such valuable and handsome gifts as those he had just received. He did not deserve such kind words or such splendid gifts. He had greatly enjoyed the acquaintance of so many faithful brother employees. In the discharge of his duties, he had no doubt often said some hasty word of reproach but if he did so it was not out of ill will but for the good of those addressed. He hoped to visit Deseronto often and to meet them all when here, and it would always be a pleasure for him to do anything in his power for any one of them. He again thanked them most heartily.

E. W. Rathbun, who was present, expressed the great pleasure which he felt at witnessing this expression of kindly feeling. As one of the officers of the Companies he would say that they were very sorry to let Mr. Brown go, but they knew he was bettering himself. Mr. Brown had come among them as a young man, was a young man yet; if patients, real and imaginary, help he would go ahead. He wished him all success in his new position.

A letter was also read from H. B. Sherwood, Sept. of the B. O. R'y, expressing his regret at being unable to attend, referring in flattering terms to Mr. Brown's ability, and wishing him all success.

The two presents were very handsome. The smoking set made in London, England, was mounted with sterling silver. On the outside was a silver plate on which was engraved a list of the names of the employees who presented the gift. The other was a presentation of the Bay of Quinte Railway to G. A. Brown, Esq., Feb. 7th, 1896. The presentation was made through G. A. Grant, Main Street. The ring was handed to Mr. Brown by James Cronk, one of the oldest employees of the Railway, and the smoking set was presented by Michael McFaul, Jr., of the Navigation Company's staff.

THE REMEDIAL BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. Dickie introduced the Remedial bill, to Parliament Tuesday, making a short explanation of its provisions. In drafting the bill the Manitoba legislation prior to 1890, he said, had been followed as closely as possible. The bill established a system of separate schools and to make that workable a board of education was established for the Province of Manitoba, composed of the same number as the old Catholic Board of Education, and having control of the organization of these schools. The standard of Education in the new schools and the standard of the teachers were not identically the same but were of the same standard as in the public schools of Manitoba. The new Catholics were to be contributed to these schools, but if a Roman Catholic prefers that his children should attend the public schools, he can by giving certain notice become a contributor to the public school. There were two kinds of inspectors to be appointed, one by the Roman Catholic Board of Education and another by the government, the duty of the latter being to certify to the efficiency of the teaching. One of the troublesome questions was the question of text books. The Board of Education is to have the choice of school books for the separate schools, this choice, however, being limited to those which have been chosen for the public schools of Manitoba or the separate schools of Ontario.

Mr. Dickie said that the Catholics who did not dissent from this system are to be allowed to take themselves for these separate schools and are made exempt from taxation for public schools. The municipality was enjoined by the bill to collect the whole of the municipal tax over the whole of the Catholic property in the municipality and distribute it for the support of the schools in the municipality. The subject of the legislative grant was another one of very great difficulty. The sharing of the legislative grant was one of the rights which peculiarly was adjudged to the minority by the Privy Council in England and Canada. On the other hand, it was felt that for this parliament to interfere directly with supply granted by the province would lead to enormous difficulties, besides being of a highly offensive character to the local authority. The government did not feel that this House had any constitutional authority to do anything with that question. The difficulty was solved so far as it was considered possible of solution by a declaration in the bill that the right to share in the legislative grant was one of the rights and privileges of the minority in Manitoba, and that it is granted that the province will after the system is established, supply those funds to the separate schools. The board of education would be appointed by the province. The bill should be introduced to do so within three months, the Refusal of the government would appoint.

The new British cruiser Pelorus, begun on May 11, 1895, was launched at Sheerness on Saturday. It took less than nine months to build her. She is 300 feet long, is calculated to have a speed of twenty knots, and represents a new type of war vessel of the cruiser class. She is neither very big nor very small, nor as fast as some. The interest in her is chiefly in the rapidity with which she was turned out. In this, Britain also excels her naval competitors.

The sky on clear nights now presents a splendid appearance. Sirius is the most resplendent of the fixed stars. Orion and the Pleiades never cease to charm. The Milky Way, ever wonderful and mysterious spans, majestically calm, the arched sky. You can get a view of Venus only by being an early riser. Mars too is a morning star. Jupiter is brighter than any other star in the evening sky. Those who have strong opera glasses or field glasses should try to pick up the moons of Jupiter.

In the county of Hastings with a population estimated at 69,933 there were in 1894 1,050 births, a decrease of 59 from the preceding year. There were 396 marriages, 17 more than in 1893. There were 482 deaths, 62 less than the preceding year. In Prince Edward with a population of 19,477 there were 327 births, an increase of 5; 155 marriages, increase 11; 240 deaths, an increase of 25. In Lennox & Addington with a population of 25,523, there were 330 births, a decrease of 16; 171 marriages an increase of 7; and 260 deaths, an increase of 52.

The Registrar-General's report shows that during 1894 the County of Hastings leads in the number of bridegrooms and brides who were seventy years of age and over at the time of marriage. There were seven couples in this county in which one or other of the principals had reached the three year score years and ten. The age of the couples are as follows: the occupation of the grooms being given: farmers—76 and 41; 67 and 77; 77 and 58; 74 and 70; 73 and 69; carpenter—71 and 61; engineer 74 and 49. This year being leap year will no doubt beat the record for 1894.

It is absolutely essential to health, says the Sundtlander, that the emanations from the skin pass easily through the clothing. This process, which is called transpiration, may be hindered in two ways—by clothing of very close texture, like rubber coats, and by an excess of garments, which prevent the outside air from mingling with the gases that emanate from the body. It is a mistake therefore to wear too thick flannels even in the severest of weather. The persons who insist upon wearing the thickest and heaviest that can be procured are usually the victims of frequent colds. It is better to wear two light, porous underclothes than one of close texture, and a different one should always be worn at night.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening, 20th inst.

Present—Mayor Rathbun presiding; Reeve Dalton; Deputy Reeve Dryden, Councilors—Hoppes, Gault, Richardson, Oliver, Mellow, Whitton, Stoddard and Clement.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read from Miss Euphemia Dougherty, Colborne, through her solicitors, and compensation for injuries received on January 2d, through a defective boardwalk on Main street, while she was visiting in Deseronto. Also from the West Publishing Company asking the town to advertise as a summer resort if so thought proper.

On motion of Councilor Hoppes read a petition from the barbers of the town asking for an amendment to the "Early Closing by-law," making it obligatory that all barber shops should be closed on Friday and Saturday evenings. As it appeared it was not competent, according to the statute, to pass such an amendment, no action was taken.

Councilor Hoppes presented the report of the Charity Committee, including some of last year's committee, showing expenditures of $18.25.

On motion of Councilor Hoppes, seconded by Reeve Dalton, the report was received and amounts ordered to be paid. Gas accounts for $17.67 were presented.

Mr. Clement presented the report of the Treasurer's accounts for the past year. On motion of Councilor Richardson, seconded by Councilor Irvine, the report was received and the accounts finally audited, and ordered to be printed.

On motion of Councilor Richardson, seconded by Councilor Gault, I. Scrimshaw and Wm. Rogers were ordered to be paid one dollar each for pumping out corner well.

The Collector reported uncollected taxes amounting to $875.24. The names of defaulters were read by the Clerk.

Reeve Dalton, for committee appointed to strike standing committees, reported, and moved, seconded by Deputy Reeve Dryden, reception of report, which was carried. The standing committees for 1896 are as follows:

Finance—Dalton, Dryden and Richardson.

Streets, Market and Gas—Richardson, Gault, Clement, Oliver and Irving.

Town Property, Fire and Police—Irvine, Whitton and Mellow.

Charity—Dryden, Mellow and Clement.

Legislation—Hays and Irving.

Court of Revision—Hoppes, Oliver, Whitton, Irvine and Stoddard.

Trade—Hoppes, Stoddard, Richardson, Dalton and Oliver.

On motion of Councilor Hoppes, seconded by Councilor Clement, the matter of collecting back taxes was referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

It was the opinion of the Council that inadequate and decided action should be taken to collect all unpaid taxes.

Reeve Dalton and Deputy Reeve Dryden gave brief reports of the proceedings of the County Council. Deseronto made a good appearance; its payments to the council were always prompt. The county will pay attention to the improvement of Dunlop street.

Reeve Dalton, who had been appointed to get legal advice on the matter of disputed taxes, reported that he had consulted G. E. DeLoche, who gave it as his opinion that the persons concerned would have to pay the amounts which appeared on the assessment roll even if there was an evident error, as they had the privilege of appealing to the court of revision. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The matter of Miss Dougherty's claim was referred to the Streets' committee, and the Mail advertising to the Trade Committee.

Deputy Reeve Dryden made several suggestions in reference to the town printing. Councilor Hoppes brought up the question of taking over the Mechanics' Institute as a public library, giving a great point of interest.

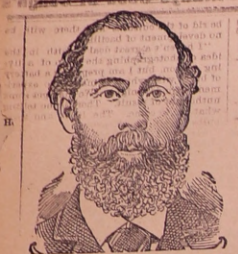

The matter was fully discussed by Mayor Rathbun, Deputy Reeve Dryden and Reeve Dalton and Councilors Richardson and Clement.

On the motion of Councilor Irvine, seconded by Councilor Stoddard, it was resolved to take over the Mechanics' Institute as a public library, and all arrangements for carrying out the resolution were referred to the Committee on Legislation, by-laws and printing.

Councilor Hart brought up the desirability of providing public bathing places if possible.

Deputy Reeve Dryden asked if the committee reported by the old council had reported about purchase of a lot for a market. Reeve Dalton stated that the committee had made some inquiries and gathered information which was not favorable to the erection of a market at present. Council adjourned.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with indigestion of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used it, he had a bottle of his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever."

It is the pattern of the heel of the Granby Rubber and Overshoe. The next time you buy a pair of rubbers or overshoes ask for Granby's and look for this pattern on the heel. There is no need to take a Granby that is not the same shape as your boot, because they are made to fit every shape of shoe. A rubber that does not fit the boot will draw the foot. Granby Rubbers are thin, light, elastic and fit perfectly.

SOUTH HASTINGS SABATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

A convention of Sabbath School workers of South Hastings was held at Shannonville on Thursday, Feb. 21st. The weather was very blustery and the roads in bad condition, preventing a great many delegates from carrying out their intention to be present. However those who succeeded in reaching Shannonville were full of work and entered into the proceedings of the convention with much enthusiasm, so that a successful meeting was the result.
The meeting assembled at 6.30 p. m. in the Methodist church. After devotional exercises, Rev. W. J. Saunders, of Shannonville, was called to the chair and Rev. D. O. McArthur, of Melrose, was appointed secretary.

The Chairman in his opening remarks expressed great regret at the absence, through illness, of W. S. McArthur, of Deseronto, who had labored so assiduously to make the convention a success. L. E. Miller, on behalf of the people of Shannonville, read an address of welcome to which, on behalf of the delegates, Rev. D. O. McArthur replied. After deliberation, on motion of W. E. Young, of Bytown, it was unanimously agreed to reorganize the South Hastings Sabbath School association for the purpose of carrying out the following nominating committee: Rev. D. O. McArthur and Messrs. J. A. Holgate, J. L. Ferguson, T. E. Morden and W. P. Young. While the committee were deliberating Rev. E. Farnsworth addressed the convention in an interesting manner. He carefully prepared reports were read from the Sunday school of the Deseronto Methodist church; Melrose Presbyterian; and those of Shannonville, Spencer, Bayview and Cochrane Methodist churches.
The Nominating Committee presented their report which was unanimously received and the following officers were declared elected: President—A. A. Richardson, Deseronto. Vice Presidents—J. W. Laird, Foxboro; T. E. Morden, Shannonville; O. H. Hicks, Bayview.
Secretary—S. Russell, Deseronto. Treasurer—Adam Leslie, Kingston. Executive Committee: V. A. Dwyer, Trenton; Alex. Winters, Lonsdale; W. W. Kelly, Bayview; F. S. Rathbun, Deseronto; James Bellocq, Kingston; Henry Denney, Foxboro; J. A. Holgate, Foxboro; W. Vanbrink, Belleville; George Porter, Frankford; and in addition all the resident ministers of South Hastings.

A number who addressed followed an interesting paper read by Mr. T. E. Morden on "The opening and closing exercises of the Sabbath School," and this session was duly closed.
The evening session was held at 7.30 p. m. and was numerously attended by residents of Shannonville and vicinity. All the proceedings were deeply interesting.
After devotional exercises the minutes of the afternoon session were read and adopted.

"The Christian's mansion on Earth," was the subject of an able and instructive address by Rev. D. O. McArthur, of Melrose, his remarks being illustrated by an ingenious chart.
"Why should schools close in winter?" was a question which caused an interesting discussion. The general opinion was that there was no good reason why Sabbath schools should close during the winter.
J. A. Holgate, of Foxboro, delivered a pointed and practical address on "Sabbath School Entertainment," which was followed by a short discussion.

Rev. W. J. Saunders read a carefully prepared paper on "The Relation of Home to the Sabbath School."
The Chairman closed the convention with prayer.
Good music was rendered at intervals during the session by the united choirs of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches of Shannonville. The people of Shannonville exercised, as usual, the greatest hospitality and placed the delegates under many obligations by their courteous and unflinching kindness. It was evident that there are in South Hastings a large number of devoted teachers and workers in the Sabbath school and there is not the least doubt that now they have been organized an impetus will be given to the cause of Sabbath school work which cannot but be productive of very great good.

At the Winnipeg jail, Saturday, Joseph and the police of five men, including a constable, were taken into custody on charges of assault.

The Washington naval sub-committee has practically decided upon six battleships and six cruisers to be ordered by the government. THE MARCH NUMBER OF THE DE LINEATOR IS CALLED THE GREAT SPRING NUMBER.

"Mam' Julie," an amusing and pathetic dialect sketch of Southern life, introduces a new writer to readers of this magazine. In the domain of the kitchen the number is freighted with good things; Mrs. A. B. Longstreet writes upon the Chemistry of Food; Helen Lombells about an English High Tea and the dishes prepared for it, and the regular article on Seasonal Cookery deals with the Chafing Dish and dishes to be prepared in it. TYENINAGRA RESERVE.

The following is the report of the agent of the Tyeningnara Reserve to be found in the Annual Report of the Department of the Interior, Deseronto, 10th August, 1895.

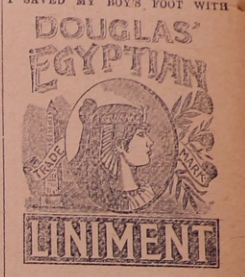

The Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, Ottawa.

SIR:—I beg to submit my annual report in duplicate and tabular statement on the Tyeningnara Reserve for the year ended 30th June, 1895. At the expiration of the term of the last lease many of the Indians returned to their farms, and are equally as good farmers as many of the white tenants. The long spell of dry weather was discouraging for a time, but the grain and crops have turned out really good, in every case a half better than last year. The heavy rains in the latter part of July saved the crops and renewed the fertility of the soil. Improvement in the buildings and fences is being made. The wire fences are not a success on low marshy grounds, as the frost year, but in high ground they are first class. We have expended about two hundred dollars in the purchase of land on broken stone and gravel, and they are beginning to show the first-class work of these men. Many of the Indians do a splendid trade in garden crops and are especially in butter, as, except in very few cases they do not attend market, but have regular customers, who take all their butter and eggs. The Indians do a good deal of fishing, and considerable trapping is done for muskrat and mink. A good many of the Indians do not own farms work among the farmers, and others are in the employ of the Rathbun company, in the saw and mill works, in the lumber yards, driving teams, or in the lumber camps. The children attend the four schools on the reserve fairly well, and those who are regular make marked advances in their studies and in the conduct of their lives. There are services in the two churches and school house missions every Sunday. There is a fair improvement in the health of the members of the band, considering the chances they have for obtaining liquor through a class of low whites. Andrew Marsden is doing well with his steam threshing machine, employing Indian help only, and has become very popular with the white tenants as well as the farmers outside of the reserve. The churchwardens of Christ Church, Wm. and Joe Maric, have been in the reserve for some time, and have been very successful in the disposal of the proceeds of pious and special subscriptions. Except a slight epidemic of measles there has been no contagious disease. There have been a few cases of la grippe. The sanitary condition of the reserve is excellent.

Indian Agent.

A cablegram from London announced the appointment of field commissioner E. Booth to the temporary command of the Salvation Army of the United States. Booth is a member of the new command, whose name is not disclosed.

I SAVED MY BOYS' FOOT WITH

My son Marshall, aged 9 years, had his foot so badly frozen that doctors said they must cut his toes off. The little fellow cried and begged so hard that we said we would not let him die if possible. Three days later the doctor suggested our letting him go to sleep and he would come up again and the throes would not be so bad. We took the Doan's Kidney Remedy, and the next morning we found his foot so warm that we could not amputate the toes until we had given him the liniment a test. The doctor sneered at the idea, but we were determined to try and save our son from being a cripple for life if possible. Three days later when all the frost fresh dropped off and the foot improved and was saved. I consider the preparation beyond price.

POSTAL.

The Canadian Official Postal Guide for January has the following instructions with regard to addresses of letters for any part of the United States. Postmasters would do well to impress upon the public that the address of a letter intended for the United States is not complete unless the words "United States" or at least the initials "U. S."—carefully written so as not to be mistaken for N. S.—form part thereof. A great many post offices in the United States bear names which also belong to post offices in Canada, and a simple indication by an abbreviation such as Me. O. Pa., etc., of the State in which the place is situated, may not, if there is no mention of the country, suffice for the present letters being sent to a Canadian office of the same name as the one in the United States for which the letter is intended.

DELINQUENT SUBSCRIBERS SUEDE.

The editor of the Hastings Star lately reported to the Division Court for the collection of two accounts due him for subscription to his paper, Judge Ketchum, gave judgment in his favor in both cases, and, in doing so, said that with Judge Benson he considered the law in regard to defaulting subscribers and had arrived at the conclusion that any person, after receiving from a post office newspaper any reason at all, and then failing to pay for it, had ordered it sent or not, became liable and that the non-payment at the post-office was not a defense. The nature of the cases were: One had for four years regularly received the paper and the other five, at their respective post offices for which they had paid nothing, and claimed they supposed it had been sent as a complement for municipal favors, or some one had sent and paid for it.

A. O. U. W.

At the Grand Lodge meeting of the A. O. U. W. in Toronto, the Grand Recorder's statement showed the membership at the end of 1895 was 26,222, the number of lodges was 1,000, the number of certificates issued was 37,073. The total cash received from all sources was $559,939. Fifteen lodges were organized during the year. Grand Lodges were elected, the first three by acclamation: Grand Master, Fred W. Unitt, Toronto; Grand Foreman, Geo. P. Graham, Belleville; Grand Overseer, J. E. Hume, Stirling; Grand Guide, John Wilson, Hamilton; Grand Inside Watchman, J. B. Donaldson, Toronto; Grand Secretary, W. J. Watson, J. Brown, St. Catharines; Grand Trustee (three years' term), J. B. Prayn, Napere; Grand Solicitor, Warren Tetten, Woodstock; Grand Medical Examiner, Dr. J. M. Cotton, Lambton Mills; Grand Executive officers (two years' term), and representatives to the Supreme Lodge, which meets in Buffalo next June, D. McWatt, F. G. Iawood and Warren Tetten.
Randall Crook, of Trenton, was chosen as the district officer for Quinte district. The annual meeting will be held in Toronto.

PATRONS IN CONVENTION.

In Toronto on Feb. 26th the Patron convention was held. The committee work, Grand President Millar in his address said: "The oldest Association of the Patrons of Industry in the Dominion has been in existence for nearly six years. At the organization of a grand association of this province, in February, 1890, representatives met at Saranac. Our chief federal plank are economy and revenue reform. The past year has been one of anxious waiting for the struggle to come. The House of Commons have kept the House of Lords in the lurch. Our forces marshaled and I am glad to inform you that although in very many places the politicians have seldom met except for political purposes, the spirit of Patriotism is stronger to day throughout the province than at any previous time in our history."

Conflicts have taken place between the French and the British in the territory, and the French have destroyed half of the town of Maps, losing in the conflict 100 men killed and wounded. The British Colonies express doubt as to the genuineness of the telegram announcing the fray.

Two penal convictions have lately been made for this offence and the guilty parties are now undergoing sentence in Kingston Penitentiary.
Whether are we drifting? There were no cases at the Shannonville division court, but only two new cases at Deseronto. No wonder lawyers are wearing long faces and talking gloomily of the future. Such a lack of business is proof of the scarcity of money. It also shows that fees of the division court are most excessive and that revision by the legislature is necessary.
The town authorities should take some action to prevent people from driving their horses at a gallop along Main street. Nearly every hour of the day this dangerous practice can be observed. It may be stated as a general principle that people who address their letters plainly and succinctly, seldom have cause to complain of their being mis-sent or otherwise detained. A little trouble taken in this matter will repaid by the greater certainty, safety and expedition with which letters will be forwarded to their respective destinations. It is not enough that the sender should be able to read his own handwriting on a letter. He or she should consider whether the writing is fully and easily legible by the employees of the post office, through whose hands the letters have to pass.

Young man, even if you are temporarily out of work, do not loaf around shops or corners. The habit soon becomes confirmed. Business men and employers of labor are more observant than you imagine, and when applying for work these things come up for consideration and affect your standing and prospects. Rather than do nothing, improve your time by reading and study, or even shovel snow over the fence and shovel it back again. Don't be a loafer.

DEATH OF S. J. DONEY.
The people not only of Solmesville but of the whole district were greatly shocked when they heard of the death of Samuel J. Doney, Reeve of Solmesville, the sad event having occurred on the 22nd inst. He had left his own home at Bethel, 3rd con. of the township, to attend his brother F. E. Doney, of Solmesville, who has been very seriously ill from la grippe. There he was taken ill of la grippe on the 17th inst., and other complications of a serious character having set in his condition soon became most critical. Notwithstanding everything that the best medical skill could effect the patient steadily sank and on Saturday evening he passed away after an illness of one week. Deceased, who was 35 years of age and the son of the late Edward Doney, of Solmesville, was highly esteemed in the district and one of the most popular residents of Solmesville township. He served for several years in the Solmesville council, and last year represented the township in the town council as first deputy reeve. At the municipal election in January he was elected reeve of the township and filled the position in a creditable manner at the meeting in Pictou, where he was also a candidate for the position of wardens. He is survived by his wife, who was a Miss Rankin, of Big Island; he had no family. The sympathies of all go out to his bereaved wife and children. Deceased was a member of the Methodist church and in politics was a Conservative. The funeral which was very numerous, took place on Tuesday forenoon, the remains being removed to the Pictou cemetery, after impressive services at the Methodist church, Deseronto.

ADDRESSES AND PRESENTATION.
Mr. and Mrs. David Bradshaw have decided to leave Deseronto and to remove to Tweed where they will reside with their daughter, Mrs. S. G. Knerson. There is general regret that Deseronto is to lose two such highly respected and esteemed citizens. Their presence will be greatly missed by a very wide circle of friends who ever found them foremost in every good cause or work having for its object the advancement of the best interests of the community. In the Methodist church, of which they have always been very active and consistent members, their loss will be especially felt. The interests of the congregation were always very dear to them and successive church members testify to the great assistance which they always so readily extended as occasion required. A pleasant memory to the last leader for many years and in that position was eminently faithful and efficient; he is also a member of the official board where his advice and assistance have been ever highly valued. In order to show their appreciation the members of Mr. Bradshaw's class in the congregation surprised him at his residence, Thomas street, on Tuesday evening of this week, and there during the evening, Mrs. J. A. Chapman, on behalf of the congregation, presented him with a very handsome Oxford Bible, having on its outside his name and on the fly leaf the names of the class.
Mrs. Bradshaw was also presented with a purse. Both replied thanking the donors for their valuable gifts and kind words. A pleasant evening, pleasant refreshments being served. The quarterly official board have also, in a suitable minute, expressed their appreciation of Mr. Bradshaw with all these things are most creditable to the congregation and the class. In a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw leave for their new home in Tweed.
